GERMANS LAUNCH VIOLENT ATTACKS AGAINST VERDUN

Great Activity Reported Along French Centre—New Offensive Under Way.

Artillery and Infantry Attacks Made in Argonne—Kaiser's Aviators Drop Bombs on Fraize in Vosges; Two Women Killed.

Heights of Meuse Scene of Violent Attacks by Teuton Troops—Paris Reports Assaults Checked by Grenades and Rifle Fire With Big Loss.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Violent onslaughts against the French works around Verdun have been launched by the armies under the German Crown Prince. Beginning with intermittent bombardments in the Argonne two days ago, the Teutons are now attacking on the whole front extending from the western Argonne to the heights of the Meuse.

Military critics here are not agreed as to whether the German attacks constitute the beginning of a genuine offensive movement, but are paying close heed to the situation around the fortress. This morning's official communique contained the statement that "intense" artillery and infantry actions are occurring in the Argonne, with the Germans attacking.

German aviators bombarded Fraize yesterday, killing two women and one soldier. The War Office reported this afternoon:

(Fraize is a Vosges mountain village, five miles southeast of St. Die, on the St. Die-Colmar highway.) French positions around Epargne and all along the Meuse heights are under attack, but the Germans have been repulsed in each instance. Further south around St. Mihiel, the enemy is shelling the French trenches near Apremont forest.

On other sectors of the front little of importance developed throughout the night. The Germans continued weak efforts against the French positions around Souchez and Neuville St. Vaast, in the region north of Arras, but their grenade attacks were repulsed. North of Lunéville German artillery bombarded Embervill and Reillon last night.

The text of the communique follows: "In Artois there were grenade combats around Souchez almost all night. Before Neuville St. Vaast an attempted German attack was easily and quickly broken up.

"In the Argonne the battle with bombs and petards, supported by artillery action, gained in intensity during the night, particularly around Hill 23. In the region of Fontaine-aux-Charmes and toward St. Hubert, to the west of Hill 23, the Germans attempted to debouch from their trenches, but they were immediately checked by our fire.

"On the Meuse heights, at St. Bois Haut, the enemy made two unsuccessful attacks. The attacking forces were driven back by grenades and by rifle fire.

"In Loraine, the Germans bombarded during the night the village of Embervill and our positions around Reillon.

"Two German aviators threw 10 bombs on Fraize, in the valley of the Meurthe, killing two women and a soldier.

"In the Vosges the night was quiet."

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. A disturbance of moderate energy developed over eastern Virginia yesterday and moved slowly up the coast to Delaware, causing showers northward over New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, and a portion of New York. The Lake disturbance has remained nearly stationary, and has caused continued rains throughout that region. Fair weather is reported from the central valleys and the far Northwest. The temperatures are unacceptably low in the Atlantic States from Maryland northward, and continue low throughout the Middle West, while conditions are nearly normal at most places west of the Mississippi River.

CARRANZA MAY DEMAND RECOGNITION IN NOTE

ment in Mexico City, many officials believe, the United States will be almost bound to recognize him. That the constitutional leader is seriously interfering with Lansing's plans was freely admitted. It was thought probable that because Carranza's proposed action in the Latin-American diplomatic may want to delay adoption of any definite program.

CARRANZA SENDS FOOD

Silliman's report added that regular train service between Vera Cruz and Mexico City has been established; food trains are being rushed to the capital and the food is being distributed under the direction of Carranza's officers.

Carranza has re-established a civil government. Virtually all of the business houses in the city are reopening, everything is moving along in order, Silliman said.

If yesterday's reported capture of Saltillo by Carranzistas is true, Silliman informed the State Department, direct communication between Laredo, Tex., and Mexico City can be established quickly.

Later the State Department received a routine message direct from the Mexican Ambassador at Mexico City, showing that communication that way had been restored.

Prepared to force through a program on which all could agree, to solve the Mexican problem, the Latin-American diplomats reassembled with Secretary of State Lansing this afternoon.

When the conference was resumed it was understood that the original plan to give the factions one last chance to agree on a peace program would be carried out unless Carranza's increased activity and apparent success might advise a different policy. What the next step would be was a matter in great doubt.

DIPLOMATS CRITICISE U. S.

The South American diplomats, although strictly observing the injunction not to discuss the conference, admitted they were a trifle dissatisfied with the United States failure to present a concrete program for their indorsement. They declared that inasmuch as the United States had acted on its own initiative, it should have had a definite plan to consider rather than to place Latin America in the position of seeming to dictate a "set-together" program.

Carranza's agency continued to issue statements after statements in the Constitutional chief's behalf. His advisers seem to think the time opportune to place him before the United States and bid strongly for recognition.

Secretary Lansing said today that Carranza has never notified the United States, or any one else, so far as he knew, that a member of the Madero cabinet would be unacceptable to him.

Carranza's agency said today that Carranza would send a representative to a peace conference. No word at all, so far as the Secretary knew, has been received from the Constitutional leader.

TRY TO AWE FACTORS

One report in circulation this afternoon when the conference opened was that a big military demonstration is planned by the United States along the Mexican border to back up whatever policy is advocated. Carranza, it is expected to awe the Mexican factions into getting together.

LANSING REES SCOTT

General Scott, chief of staff of the army, may be sent to the Mexican border to once prevent a possible series of depredations by General Villa. This belief gained credence today when General Scott held a long conference with Secretary of State Lansing. Neither would discuss their talk.

Secretary Lansing said today that he has been known for several days not to feel that the rebel leader, realizing he is to be crushed, and blaming the United States for failing to recognize him, may try to avenge himself by "shooting up" several towns along the border.

General Scott is a warm personal friend of Villa. Department officials believe Scott can exercise enough influence over the rebel chieftain to keep him from heading over the border.

Secretary Lansing declined to discuss the report. He did say, however, that it was not planned to send any more troops to the border. He said he believed the forces now there could cope with any situation that might arise.

VIC CONSUL ZOEHLER, AT JUAREZ

Secretary of State Lansing reported to the State Department today that Villa arrived there yesterday. Zoehler stated the rebel chief did not confiscate any property, as reported, nor did he confer with storekeepers.

PRESIDENT PLEASED WITH PROGRESS OF CONFERENCE

Carefully Reviews Report of A B C Meeting on Mexico.

CORNISH, N. H., AUG. 6.—President Wilson is much pleased with the progress accomplished at the first session of the A B C conference on Mexico at the State Department in Washington yesterday.

A report of the meeting was received here and the President went over it very carefully. It is believed that he will advocate the holding of further meetings until a definite program of action is agreed on.

STORM DOES BIG DAMAGE IN LANCASTER COUNTY

Losses Estimated at Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 6.—A heavy rainstorm, which assumed the proportions of a cloudburst in many places, swept over Lancaster County last night and caused damage to crops and property which will reach several hundred thousand dollars at least, and is likely to go much higher.

At least one hundred and a half section of Mount Joy, a town of 5000 people, inundated about 10 miles from this city, was inundated by the breaking of the water works dam.

George Smith, a family, who reside along the Little Choptank at the dam, were forced to flee for their lives. The water rose 10 feet and flooded the house. A large shed, in which tools used at the works were kept, was swept down the creek, which released a raging river.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ORGANIZE POLITICALLY

Workers Hope to Get "Square Deal" in Legislation by Controlling Votes.

The active participation of all organizations of railroad men throughout Pennsylvania in city, State and National politics will be planned at a meeting in McKelvey's Hall, 434 street and Lancaster avenue, where officials and other representatives of the Order of Railroad Conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers will be present with the power to take decisive action toward forming a permanent political organization of railroad men.

The passage of the full crew repealer by the last State Legislature, and the consideration of other legislation vitally affecting the railroad men, has led to their decision to organize to fight their own battles. As more than 1,000 men will be affected by the decisions of the organization, it is explained, will be strictly non-partisan and all questions will be determined according to the issues and men involved, rather than the political party. The platform of the organization will indorse woman suffrage and prohibition, and it will vigorously oppose the passage of another full crew repealer by the 1917 Legislature.

The immediate aim of the railroad men will be to canvass the candidates for office, to elect the men who will represent them in the legislature, and to pledge themselves to stand for the measures advocated by the employees. A co-ordinate publicity campaign on all matters of general interest will also be conducted, according to the present plans.

SING SING WARDEN DEFENDS REFORM

accurate, most of it sympathetic. Now, however, stories of the success of the reform have ceased to be interesting. But stories of its failure—alleged failure, I should say—are interesting.

"Consequently, many stories are written of escapes and attempted escapes. As a matter of fact, there has not been but three escapes and one attempt. That is somewhat under the average for many years past.

"Either through mistaken kindness or through inability to take any other course, we are trying to do, much has been written to indicate a reign of sentimentality at Sing Sing. As a matter of fact, I consider, sentimentality only a degree better than brutality. There is no sentimentality about the Welfare League, get through a session of the prisoners' own court and you'll find that out."

JUSTICE IN PRISON COURTS

Sitting through such a session seemed to prove his case. Half a dozen prisoners, charged with violations of various prison rules, were brought before a board of five other prisoners. Few courts ever were more thorough and painstaking in their efforts to get at the facts. Few courts heard the cases of those prisoners who felt they had been too severely dealt with by their fellows.

"They talk about lack of discipline here," he said afterward. "The prisoners themselves keep twice as close a watch on the conduct of one another as the strictest guard could possibly keep. And in our first four months only about 100 cases were reported for discipline in the first four months of the year before."

The charge that the men talk is the first one that proves itself. The absence of the striking silence that used to characterize Sing Sing is one of the first things one notices. In the two-hour period they not only talk, but they play or watch baseball, or obtain other exercise to brood in their cells, but they talk. "And when they're in their cells they have that much more that's worth while to think about."

PRISONERS SLEEP AT NIGHT

"And it makes them sleep at night, the best care in the world for disordered nerves, and notice the deep silence with only the men's regular breathing breaking it. The things that told most on my nerves the week I spent in Auburn Prison were the constant moaning, coughing, restless moving in the cells all night long. It was horrible."

"There are plenty of figures with which to convince any one that matters are moving in the right direction at Sing Sing. Why, take the matter of insanity. We are cutting the number of cases all the time. That's what rational treatment of the men will do."

Alleged "Dope" Seller Jailed

Joseph Hart, Dorian street near Vine, who has been accused of attempting to sell dope, was arrested by the County prison warden, and is now in the County Jail.

RUSSIAN TRUCK SHIPPED

Large Order Expected by Rowe Motor Company.

DOWNTOWN, Pa., Aug. 6.—The first of the Russian Government trucks made by the Rowe Motor Company, of this place, was shipped yesterday. It will be inspected on its arrival at New York and, if satisfactory orders will be placed to keep the plant running full time for several months.

Work will soon be started on a large addition to the machine shop and moulding room.

ITALIAN AIRSHIP RAIDS POLA, FALLS INTO SEA; TAKEN BY AUSTRILIANS

General Cadorna's Troops Attack Austrian Inner Lines—Wings of Army Advance in Enveloping Movement on Gorizia.

ROME, Aug. 6. An Italian dirigible airship bombarded the Austrian naval base of Pola, on the Adriatic Sea, yesterday, but subsequently fell, and its crew of three officers and three men was captured.

The official announcement of the loss of an airship states that the causes of its fall are not known, but it is believed here that it was hit by an Austrian shell as it flew above Pola, and was unable to make its escape.

Austrian attacks on the Italian positions at Monte Sol Bus' continue with extraordinary persistency, showing the immense importance which the Austrians attach to these positions.

The evacuation of Riga, on the Baltic, is expected hourly, as the great cavalry army of General Von Buelow is less than 10 miles from the city and driving strongly against the rear guard of the retreating Russians.

After occupying Riga, the German army of the north is expected to strike at the Warsaw-Petrograd railway and cut in two this important line of communication.

BERLIN, Aug. 6. In central Poland the army of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is pursuing the Russians, who are falling back in the face of the advance. They hope to take refuge behind the extensive area of swampy ground in that region.

With feverish desperation the German engineers at Warsaw and Ivanograd are repairing the bridges over the Vistula which the Russians blew up before they retreated.

The evacuation of Ivanograd was part of the general plan of Grand Duke Nicholas to withdraw his troops all along the front. The city is an important railway centre. One line runs into Ivanograd from Warsaw, another from Novo Minak, another from Brest Litovsk and others from Radom, Lukow and Lublin.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA UNAFFECTED BY POLAND DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. The fall of Warsaw will not affect conditions in Petrograd and the interior in Russia. This was understood to be the substance of a report on general Russian conditions cabled to the State Department today by Ambassador Marye at Petrograd.

The Russian Government is reported to have made full preparations for taking care of the civilian population that began fleeing from the Polish capital weeks ago. While at many places the sudden demand for aid caused temporary short-

RUSSO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE NOW LIKELY TO SUFFER SETBACK

TOKIO, Aug. 6. Plans for a Russo-Japanese alliance are likely to receive a decided setback as a result of the fall of Warsaw.

Russia is anxious to effect this alliance immediately in the hope that Japanese troops may be sent to help oppose the Germans, but general sentiment here is opposed to the sending of any Japanese expedition at present.

DEMANDS BODY OF MAN WHO OWED HER MONEY

Coroner McKeever said the disposition of the body will be up to the State Anatomical Board. Early announced intention of visiting the German Consul to find if there is any truth in statements of Guttmiller that he had estates in Germany.

"Guttmiller lived with my sister a long time," said Mrs. Early. "He went away for a time and then last January came to my house and asked to be taken in, as he was out of work. He promised to pay me as soon as he could get his allowance. He was discouraged and feared he would be cut up. At times he said he wanted to be cremated when he died."

"He said that if he couldn't pay me and if he died suddenly I should sell his body. Any medical college, he said, would give me $100. I have witnesses to prove that he said this. He paid me only $5 since last January and it seems to me if his body is worth anything I should be paid for it."

Mrs. Early said that Guttmiller often told her of offers which he had received from medical men. Eminent physicians in New York, he said, had offered him large sums to remain with them for clinical purposes. One college made an offer of $200, he said.

Dr. J. Parsons Schaeffer, head of the Baugh Institute of Anatomy, belittled the value of Guttmiller's body, which he said, the man had exaggerated.

"Transposition of organs is not unusual," he said. "Unless this is a case of complete transposition, and unless some medical school makes a special offer, I should say the price ought to be about $10 or $15. I can't say without dissecting it. The board will place a value on the remains."

Guttmiller, who was 54 years old, was a waiter in a roadhouse at Flourtown.

Teutons have forced the Germans to fall back. In both of these theatres the enemy is trying to flank the retreating Russians, but thus far has been unable to make progress that menaces the safety of the Grand Duke, the War Office asserts.

Bavaria Rejoices at Troops' Victory MUNCH, Bavaria, Aug. 6.—Church bells are ringing throughout Bavaria today in celebration of the victory of Prince Leopold and his Bavarian troops at Warsaw. Thanksgiving services were held in all the large towns after the news of the Polish capital's fall arrived.

King Ludwig III sent a message of praise to his brother, Prince Leopold, in which he praised the valor of his Bavarian army and expressed the national gratitude for the troops' triumph at Warsaw.

PETROGRAD RAILWAY AND RIGA HINDENBURG'S NEXT OBJECTIVE

From the Baltic Sea to Galicia the Russian army is in retreat over a front approximately 500 miles long.

"On to Petrograd" has replaced the battle cry of "On to Paris."

Invigorated, the strong Polish fortress on the Vistula, southeast of Warsaw, has fallen. Austro-German troops entered the city on Thursday, it was officially announced today.

The evacuation of Riga, on the Baltic, is expected hourly, as the great cavalry army of General Von Buelow is less than 10 miles from the city and driving strongly against the rear guard of the retreating Russians.

INTERMYER'S STOCK WORTH $4,500,000

Noted Attorney's 15,000 Shares of Steel Stock Now Quoted at $300 Apiece.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Four million and a half dollars earned as the result of the war by Samuel Untermyer is one of the manifestations in the phenomenal jump of Bethlehem Steel stock.

Several years ago Untermyer was the attorney in the reorganization of the old United States Shipbuilding Company and several other minor steel companies into the Bethlehem Steel Company. On the advice of Charles M. Schwab he bought 15,000 shares of the new company's stock. The shares had at that time a nominal value of $5.

Today Bethlehem Steel shares were soaring around $300 a share, and few to be ahead at that price.

Which makes Untermyer's fee from the one case $4,500,000.

"I don't care to sell at $300," said Untermyer today. "I think I'll hold it for five."

First sales of Bethlehem this forenoon were at $28, adding another $120,000 to his fee.

TEMPERATURE DROPS AGAIN

Franks of Weather Send Quicksilver Down to 65.

The mercury played another trick today and tumbled down the scale all the way to 64. That was the reading at the Weather Bureau at 3 o'clock. By noon it had climbed but a single degree, to 65.

The drop was particularly noticeable in comparison to the maximum of 82 degrees for yesterday, recorded during the afternoon, and the high record of the recent hot spell, when the thermometer reached 94.

While it is cold for August, there is nothing unusual in a temperature of 64. Many times in the past the temperature during this month has been in the low 60's. The record for August 5 is 62, in 1881. As to an explanation of the weird antics of the mercury, there isn't any. Such drops and sudden rises of the thermometer, with protracted or limited spells of heat or cold, must simply be put down as the vagaries of weather.

SKETCHERS BORN IN STAGNANT PARK POOL, MAKE OFFICIAL RUSS

Playground Superintendent and Civil Service Commissioner Point Out Danger of Place Where Children Play and Swim.

A thousand children amused themselves today at the Smith Memorial Playground, near the Columbia avenue entrance to Fairmount Park. A thousand—perhaps more—will play there tomorrow, and so on all summer. On holidays this year there have been as many as 400.

Fifty yards from the edge of the playground is a pool of water—stagnant water, some say; not stagnant water, say others. The children like the playground and have a good time there; but declares H. Peter Bolger, superintendent, when they go home they find themselves covered with mosquito bites. Mr. Bolger says there are many mosquitoes about and blazes it on the pool. He says it is stagnant.

Peter Bolger, Chief Service Commissioner, who drew public attention to the pool, also says it is stagnant. He says that the mosquitoes it breeds travel all the way across to his home at 1635 North 83d street, three-fourths of a mile distant, and annoy him and his neighbors.

Some disagree with Mr. Bolger and Mr. Bolger, T. S. Martin, secretary of the Park Commission, said he knew of no stagnant pool in the Park. Jesse T. Watson, chief engineer of the Park Commission, said the same thing.

Mr. Bolger quotes Webster's Unabridged as his authority. It states as follows: "STAGNANT—Not flowing; not running in a current or stream; motionless; hence, foul from lack of motion; as stagnant pool; stagnant blood in the veins."

"I'd like to know," said Mr. Bolger, "if the water in the Schuylkill, that is what that doesn't describe the pool in Fairmount Park. If that isn't a stagnant pool, then I don't know what a stagnant pool is."

Mr. Bolger disavows any intention to get into a controversy, and is greatly surprised any one should have objected to his use of the word stagnant.

A reporter visited the pool and found it, as Mr. Bolger described it, hardly a pool. It is about 200 feet in diameter, lying in a hollow alongside the tracks of the Reading Railway and almost hidden from view by the shrubbery and trees surrounding it.

The pool is filled with branches of trees and other pieces of wood. Although at the office of the Park Commissioners it is said that there is a drainage pipe, six or eight inches in diameter, to carry the water into the Schuylkill, there was not the slightest motion visible in the water that would suggest a current created in that way. A slight odor of stagnation seemed to arise from the fen.

The water was thick and sluggish, and of a color suggesting milk diluted with water or, perhaps, clam chowder. Some boys were swimming and when they emerged it seemed as if their bodies were dirtier than when they went in.

After a few minutes he said that if there was anything wrong with the pool, it was the stoppage of the drainage pipe, and that it would be opened by some of the men.

"It will be fixed in a day or two," he said. "They are making a lot of fuss about this thing, and I don't see that it's of any importance. There is no regular pool there, but no doubt the rains have poured in and filled the depression in the land."

The Health Department has not been notified that the Park Commission is willing to fix the drain.

"Will you act according to the recommendation of the Health Department in this matter?" Mr. Vogdes was asked.

"We will have the thing all fixed before the Health Department completes its investigation," he said.

Many of the boys who go in to bathe have their feet and ankles cut by glass nails that lie on the bottom. One of the boys who he bathed there yesterday had a wound on his arm, caused ten days ago by a splinter. "The wound had not healed, and it was evident from the red and angry flesh around the wound that blood poisoning was developing. The boy has been swimming there daily."

His companions kept the drowning secret until this morning, when the story came out through the police investigation of Kretzel's disappearance. John Keller, 12 years old, was with the other boys, but he was frightened and fled before the rescue of a boat. The body has not been recovered. It is supposed Kretzel had cramps.
